INTERGOVERNMENTAL COORDINATION ELEMENT

Introduction

1. The purpose of the Intergovernmental Coordination Element is 1) to identify and resolve incompatibilities between Miami-Dade County's comprehensive planning and growth management processes and those of other governmental entities within the County's area of concern, and 2) to review existing, and propose improved coordination of, processes for comprehensive planning and growth management between Miami-Dade County, local governmental entities within its area of concern, and regional, State and federal agencies. ~~The local governmental entities within Miami-Dade County's area of concern are defined by Florida Administrative Code Section 9J-5.015(1), as t~~The thirty-five~~four~~ municipalities within Miami-Dade (See Figure 1), the three adjacent counties and the adjacent municipalities within these counties are listed on Table 1. The major regional, State and federal entities with which Miami-Dade County must coordinate its planning and growth management are listed on Table 2.
2. Intergovernmental coordination has been and remains a hallmark of Miami-Dade County government. Concern over the ability of the fragmented local governments to effectively plan and manage the emerging Greater Miami metropolis was the impetus for the establishment of the two-tier -- areawide and local -- approach to government in 1957. Even though the County encompassed relatively few local governmental entities at that time (one quarter of the 120-unit average for metropolitan areas of similar size), the "streamlining" of governance was a primary objective of the voters in establishing the metropolitan government. No net change occurred between 1957 and 1995 in the number of municipalities. ~~This is a remarkable record in view of the County's nearly tripled population and more than doubled area of development. Since 1995, nine additional areas have been incorporated; and one municipality, Islandia, was abolished by County Ordinance 12-14, in 2012.~~ Miami-Dade has made significant strides in governmental coordination in two other ways. Masked by the relative stability in number of local government units is the dramatic metropolitanization of responsibilities that have taken place in such services as water supply and distribution, sewage collection and disposal, solid waste disposal, fire protection, libraries and transportation, all of which has greatly facilitated intergovernmental coordination. In addition, Miami-Dade County government has structured many of its administrative and operating units, such as the Development Impact Committee, the Department of Regulatory and Economic Resources ~~Environmental and Resources Management~~ and the Miami-Dade County Public Housing Agency and Community Development, to facilitate coordination with their regional, State and federal counterparts.
3. ~~(Note: Introduction was last updated in 2007. Currently several areas are seeking to incorporate.)~~

5. Effective comprehensive planning has also been a central focus of the Miami-Dade government from the onset. The power to "prepare and enforce comprehensive plans for the development of the county" was one of twenty-four specified in the County Home Rule Charter in 1957 and a Department of Planning is one of the four departments required by it the County Home Rule Charter. The County adopted its first land use plan in 1965 and has since enacted a series of increasingly more refined growth management plans and procedures as required by the Local Government Comprehensive Planning Act of 1975 as amended from time to time.
6. In summary, Miami-Dade has a ~~thirty-nine~~ forty-seven year history of intergovernmental coordination for effective comprehensive planning and plan implementation. This element provides a review of this coordination and identifies selected aspects in need of change.
